The game saves when you sleep at a shelter, but it doesn't say you have actually saved. And no you cannot dismantle buildings yet.

To destroy these buildings, attack them several times until they are destroyed. Make sure you have the "Destroy Buildings" option enabled, otherwise they won't be able to be destroyed. This is all you ...

In this guide, you will learn the basics of repairing and removing structures quickly and effectively, in The Forest.

I can still see inside the cabin from outside, that allows me to save or even hang stuff on the drying rack from outside, but I can't sleep nor do anything else that requires me to be IN the cabin. Is there a way ...

It flipped over and I can't get it to flip back (is this a bug?) And can I destroy pre-built buildings? I'm strongly assuming I can demolish the structures I make. Thanks for your help! Nobody's responded ...

News 12th of December 2019: A sequel to The Forest has been announced! It is called "Sons of the Forest".

Given the amount of logs involved in building anything substantial, I'd really like to be able to deconstruct to get the resources back if I want to move/change things. Is there any way to do this? ...

Save and then reload, unfinished buildings and placed blueprints will be removed. But some stuff of your inventory will too.

Although pressing and holding C will erase the blueprint and recover approximately half of the assigned materials, some are non-recoverable, such as turtle shells, leaves, and pots. Most damaged ...

Can the Forest Locker be dismantled

Yes, you absolutely can destroy builds in The Forest, though the methods vary depending on what you've built and how you want to go about it. The game provides multiple ways to ...
